Russia Strikes Kyiv with Ballistic Missiles, Killing at Least 9 — Al Jazeera

~24h ago · Europe / War

Russia fired 27 ballistic missiles at Ukraine's capital on August 1, with only one intercepted — Ukraine's Patriot air-defense stocks reportedly exhausted — killing nine people including children and wounding 33 more. The scale of the raid underscores Ukraine's deepening air-defense crisis as the war enters its fifth year.

Trump Calls Hamas Disarmament Agreement 'Historic' as Two-Week Ceasefire Begins — Axios / CNN

~36h ago · Middle East / Diplomacy

The US-led Board of Peace announced Hamas agreed to a phased 200–250-day disarmament process in Gaza, with militants beginning ceasefire terms on August 1; however, Israel has not publicly accepted its own withdrawal obligations, leaving the deal's durability in doubt.

South Korea's KOSPI Rockets 18% — Its Largest Single-Day Gain Ever — Korea Times / Bloomberg

~24h ago · Markets / Asia

Samsung Electronics surged 28% and SK Hynix hit its 30% daily limit-up as strong AI cloud-spending results from Microsoft and Amazon reversed a brutal three-day tech selloff driven by AI-bubble fears and rising Chinese chip competition; Japan's Nikkei and Taiwan's TAIEX also rose sharply.

Death Toll Reaches 67 in Spain's Ceuta Border Crisis with Morocco — Euronews

~24h ago · Europe / Migration

Dozens of migrants died — some drowning, others crushed in a stampede — while attempting to cross a breakwater barrier into Spain's North African exclave of Ceuta, making it one of the deadliest single migration incidents at the Spanish border in years and reigniting EU-Morocco tensions.
